

Joe Tommasino, Esq., NACCA President and Staff Attorney, Las Vegas Justice Court

After graduating from Valley High School in 1988 as a valedictorian, Joe received a degree in political science from UNLV and successfully completed the University's "Honors Program."

In 1996, Joe graduated from the McGeorge School of Law after serving as a writer and editor for the Pacific Law Journal.

After obtaining his license to practice law in Nevada, Joe was hired as a law clerk for the judges of the Las Vegas Justice Court, and he was eventually promoted to the position of Staff Attorney.

Joe has been the president of NACCA for nearly a decade. Moreover, he frequently conducts training sessions for NACCA on such topics as new legislation, public records, and ethics.

Joe is also a Fellow of the Institute for Court Management